

Smoke Synopsis

Smoke today is generally forecast to rise and disperse toward the east/southeast, with light to very brief moderate smoke impacts possible to areas in/around Black Canyon City, Cordes Lakes, Mayer, and locations in the southeast portion of the Verde Valley. Smoke that lifts higher into the atmosphere is forecast to move back toward the south/southwest over the Phoenix Valley. Smoke over Phoenix is forecast to remain well elevated off the ground.

Overnight, smoke may drain into Lake Pleasant, Black Canyon City, and Corde Lakes; however, impacts are forecast to be light.

It should also be noted; there is a chance of thunderstorms this afternoon, resulting in strong gusty winds that could push smoke in any direction, resulting in brief periods of moderate smoke impacts for locations near the fire.
