CURRENT SITUATION

Situation Summary:	Tuesday evening shower activity diminished by sunset. The shower activity and lingering moisture resulted in excellent humidity recoveries overnight. Overnight lows cooled a few degrees with lows in the upper 50s to lower 60s. Winds were breezy Tuesday evening but diminished after sunset as well. Drier weather is expected on Wednesday with cool and moist conditions. A slight drying and warming trend will develop later in the week. The rain received over the past operational periods has hampered suppression repair activities. Smoldering will continue as the cloud cover retreats and temperatures warm. No fire growth is expected.
Evacuations:  Incident Information QR code	All Evacuation Orders have been lifted.  The areas within the fire perimeter remain under an Evacuation Warning.
