Firefighters will begin strategic firing operations south of Grassy Ridge. During operations, aviation will pre-treat with water to prevent spotting over firelines.

Firefighters may also burn south from Horse Mountain Lookout this afternoon.

Due to lack of fire activity in this area, firefighters will move from the Snake River corridor to other priority areas of the fire.

Firefighters are protecting structures in Bear and Cuprum, including two recently identified structures in Bear. Secondary firelines are being constructed to protect communities on the eastern side.

Mopping up hot spots and patrolling the fireline north of Boulder Creek.

Continuing to meet with ranchers to evaluate needs in this area and throughout the eastern side.

Maintaining structure protection in this area. Much of the fireline in this area is considered contained.
