Fire activity did increase from the very mild behavior that we have witnessed the last few days. The area that began as the spot fire on Cougar Ridge earlier this week merged with the main footprint and is still displaying active fire behavior in the northwest corner of the fire.

The possibility of spot fires up to a half mile from the active fire are possible today due to the continued dry weather.

Suppression repairs and mop-up, including removing hazard trees and locating hot spots like stump holes that are still smoldering continue.

Fire personnel moved more of the heavy equipment away from contained areas of the fire to focus efforts on establishing indirect fire line around the active fire area near Cougar Ridge.

Visitors looking to hunt or recreate on public lands over the holiday weekend should be aware that Forest and BLM closures around the Rail Ridge Fire remain in place. These closures are in place to protect members of the public from hazards such as damaged roads, hazard trees, burning stump holes and unstable ground as well as fire crews and equipment working around the fire.
