Logan Fire Statistics:

Size: 15,638 acres

Completion: 10%

Total Personnel: 236

Reported: 9/8/24

Cause: Lightning

Location: Edwardsburg/Big Creek and into the Frank Church River of No Return Wilderness on the north and south sides of Big Creek in the wilderness.

Weather: The Logan Fire area received about 0.5 inches of rain yesterday and overnight, with a trace of snow visible at upper elevations. Today will be cloudy, there is a 90% chance of precipitation, with cooling temperatures increasing the likelihood of snow especially up high. Winds from the northwest are expected, blowing around 8 mph with gusts of 15-20 mph in exposed areas. High temperatures are expected to reach 41 F in the fire area, with wind chill values likely to remain below freezing today. Tonight, will be cold with clearing skies, and possible snow on the ground causing temperatures to drop to around 15 F.

Current Situation: Yesterday, resources were downsized in advance of the incoming weather. Remaining personnel include a hand crew, engine crew, a falling module, equipment operators, and overhead. The plan for today includes patrolling around the structures and roads in the Edwardsburg area, looking for and removing fallen trees on the roadways, and checking for debris that may have been washed down from steep, recently burned terrain. A road-grader arrived on scene yesterday and will assist firefighters with road maintenance in the fire area and on access roads including the Big Creek Road and the Johnson Creek Road, working potentially as far south as Warm Lake. A chipper and a small masticator are expected to arrive at the fire today, and they will help with suppression repair and fuel reduction, primarily in the Edwardsburg area.

Great Basin Team 3 is timing out and will return control of the Logan Fire to the Payette National Forest on Saturday morning. This is our last regular update, but the Payette National Forest will publish updates as needed moving forward.
