Current Situation: Firefighters continue to work on constructing and improving containment lines in steep, inaccessible terrain near Winter's Creek. Containment continues to grow, and the fire is expected to stay within its current footprint. Urban Search and Rescue teams have completed 8,856 inspections and covered 1,100 miles in grid search patterns. Utility companies continue to restore infrastructure damaged by the fire. Fire suppression repairs are in progress, along with watershed assessments to evaluate potential risks to life, property, and infrastructure from debris flows, flooding, and rockfall hazards. Both the Watershed Emergency Response Team (WERT) and the Burned Area Emergency Response (BAER) Team are in place and are continuing their assessments of the burned area to address immediate post-fire impacts.

Weather: Mild south and west winds will help build a moist marine influence today into the weekend. Very dry weather and an offshore flow will return next Monday.

Damage Assessment: Damage inspection teams have completed inspections for 75% of all structures within the fire footprint.
